

NEW KIND OF FISH

"Salmo Roosevelt" the Name of New Fish.

IS NAMED AFTER ROOSEVELT

Beautiful and Rare Fish Found Only in Small Tributary of Kern River in California is to be Propagated.

"A newly discovered Pacific Coast fish has been named after President Roosevelt, not by its proud, patriotic and, presumably, Republican parents, but by experts of the fisheries bureau with the president's express permission. This fish, so the experts declare, is found only in one small stream, tributary to the Kern river in the high Sierras of California, called Volcano creek. The president has taken a personal interest in its preservation and has directed that every effort be made to propagate it artificially and to distribute it over the United States. It is hardy and prolific and the experts believe that it will thrive and multiply in the cold streams of the Adirondacks and in other parts of the Eastern United States as well as in the mountainous regions of the Pacific.

"An expedition sent to investigate the fish made an enthusiastic report to the president in which it was stated that in richness of color this trout 'was not equaled by any other known species.' In form it was described as 'no less beautiful, having perfect lines, and fins large and well proportioned.' The report continues:

"'Salmo Roosevelt' (to give the fish its proper scientific name) is a golden trout. When it jumps out of the water in the sunshine, it looks as if it were literally made of gold. On the back it is of a light yellowish olive color, but the lower sides and belly are a bright golden yellow, and along the middle of each side runs a rosy band. The gills are rosy, and so likewise are the fins, except the back fin, which, as well as the tail, is olive and yellow mottled with black spots. It is about a foot in length."

"For the protection of the fish the president has been asked to extend the limits of the Mt. Whitney military reservation so as to include the whole of Volcano creek in order that all requisite regulations in regard to fishing may be enforced.

"The fact that the president has chosen a Pacific Coast fish on which to bestow his name is another evidence of his acknowledged perspicacity. As it is 'unequaled by any other known species' and is 'vigorous and admirably fitted for life in the turbulent waters in which it dwells,' its selection for the honor, especially at this time, is a peculiarly appropriate one.

"The president, nevertheless, will be lucky if he escapes being accused by his opponents of attempt by this means to influence the Isaac Walton vote in the house or senate.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unnatural looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaint is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as it promptly controls any unnatural looseness of the bowels. PACIFIC COUNTY'S BUNCH OF RAILROADS

She Has Six Already For Exploitation and More to Come in the Future.

Southwestern Washington is to have another new railroad. Yesterday the Gray's Harbor & Columbia River Railway Company filed articles of incorporation with the auditor of Pierce County. The capital is $1,000,000, in shares of $100 each.

As outlined in the articles of incorporation, the purpose of the company is to construct and maintain a railroad and telegraph line from Kalama in Cowlitz County, westerly through Wahkiakum and Pacific Counties to a point on the Pacific Ocean, with a connecting line running northward to Gray's Harbor.

The articles of incorporation also authorize the company to operate steam boats and barges on the Columbia River and vessels on the Pacific Ocean and its bays and inlets.

The papers were led by Chester Thorne and A. F. Albertson of Tacoma, who are named as trustees with F. A. Rice, D. A. Young and H. H. Seales.

Pacific County is accumulating quite a bunch of chartered railroads. Besides the above there is the projected road from Chehalis by the way of North River, the actual surveyed Northern Pacific route from South Bend to Duwamish, the McCormick Lumber Company's railroad from McCormick to Gray's River which is partly built and the Chinook Lumber Company's railroad from Deep River to South Bend.—South Bend Journal.

ANTIOCH A PARADISE FOR CHEAP LIVERS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Consul J. B. Jackson, who was sent out to Syria on a commercial mission by the United States writes from Antioch, the cradle of the Christian faith, that it is about the cheapest place to live he ever struck. He also rejoices that Antioch produces a blessed quality of soil, containing pure olive oil, and that this is sent to the furthestmost parts of Turkey and the land of Egypt.

FRESNO, Cal., July 8.—A private dispatch from Wamaona says that eight Yosemite Valley stages have been held up by a lone bandit. No details were received.

LABOR STRUGGLE IN FRANCE STILL SERIOUS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The labor conflict in France continues to present a serious aspect, according to consular reports received by this government. With the workmen declaring that they are determined to struggle until the employers capitulate and the employers, apparently equally determined, stating that they will make no concessions, some of the French industries are very much demoralized.

The present agitation for shorter hours and increased wages is said to have furthered the tendency toward concentration of business to the large firms. Small firms have disappeared rapidly in France during the last ten years, unable to withstand the labor agitation, it is reported.

HELD ON CHARGE OF INFANTICIDE.

SUFFOLK, Va., July 8.—A young girl claiming to be from Virginia, whose name was put down on the register of the leading hotel here as Sarah Jones, of New York, was arrested here today known by a charge of infanticide.

KILLS AN OLD MAID

Companion of Studio Mystery Puzzles London Police.

CRIMINAL IS UNKNOWN MAN

Murderer Enters the Home of Two Old Maids—Kills One and the Other, Who Was Badly Wounded, Makes Escape.

LONDON, July 8.—Another tragedy, the author of which of which is undiscovered, his occurred in London. The affair is rendered all the more remarkable by the fact that, as in the studio murder, which mystery has held the attention of the police for several weeks past, a hammer was used to commit the crime.

The scene of the latest murder was Camberly, in the outlying Surrey section of London, where, in a house called Heathfield, lived two old maiden ladies named Hogg. One of them was found dead in the house, with her head almost severed from her body. The other rushed into a house close by and fell insensible, with fearful wounds in her head.

The occupants of this house hastened to Heathfield, which is a large villa standing in a walled-in grounds of two or three acres. There, in the entrance hall, was found the murdered woman. The Misses Hogg enjoyed an income of $10,000 a year each. Their brother is a retired Colonel in the army, and also wealthy in his own right. The old ladies were eccentric and miserly. They kept no resident servants for their large house and grounds and stables, but servants came and did the work each morning, and then left.

The ladies were very fond of traveling and had lived some time in Japan. They were about to go to Japan again for a year or two. The lady murdered had a romance in her life. Thirty years ago she was engaged to marry an army officer, but they quarreled, and the two sisters retired from society and buried themselves in the country. Then they traveled for years, and finally settled down as recluses in Camberly.

The police believe that some man knew of their wealth and that no servants were about the place after noon, and attempted to rob the house committing the crime of murder in order to escape. But nothing appears to have been stolen. The younger Miss Hogg, when she recovered consciousness, could throw little light on the crime. His statement is as follows:

I went for a walk after lunch, leaving my sister alone. She was reading. I returned at 3:30, and went at once to my room upstairs to take my things off. My sister suddenly began screaming. I rushed downstairs and met a horrid man on the staircase. He attacked me with a sharp instrument. I don't know how I got out of the house. I had never seen the man before."

In the right hand of the dead woman was tightly grasped a heavy hammer which belonged to the house. There are traces of the murderer leaving. He had walked to the kitchen and washed his bloody hands. Then footprints show he went out the back way, through the grounds, over the wall, and into an adjoining wood. In this food have been found the ashes of a recent fire and the charred remains of some old clothing. There is no other clew.

FINED FOR RED HAT ON DOG.

BERLIN, July 7.—Saxony was stirred up some time ago because a boy was arrested for wearing a red tie, the emblem of Socialism. An even worse case is now reported from the little town of Erput. The newspapers of the town publish the following notice, received from the police by a prominent citizen:

"On the public streets at 10:30 in the morning, you were seen leading by a string a dog was wearing a red silk hat, thus causing excitement. This was a gross misdemeanor. We fine you 5 marks, or one day's imprisonment."

The gentleman explained that he was only celebrating a holiday by dressing up his dog and intended no Socialistic demonstration, but he was told he had better pay up the $1.25 and keep quiet. He had done both.

"Good Clothes for Men Who Know"

SEE LEE WILLARD AT THE STAR

PROMINENT ACTOR AND HIS EXCELLENT COMPANY OF ARTISTS WILL PRESENT "A WESTERN GENTLEMAN"—DON'T MISS IT.

Tonight at the Star Theatre, Lee Willard and his strong company, will make initial appearance in "A Western Gentleman." The Willard Company will give their initial programme this evening and from all indications it will be advisable to get seats early. The opening bill "A Western Gentleman," is a thoroughly Western play and replete with strong situations and cast in the mining district of Nevada; and though this play may seem a romance, the story of it is being enacted every day; where men's greed overcomes men's principal. Mr. Willard sustains the part of Jack Mason, a typical Western gambler, who through the love of a sweet and innocent girl, alters his life and becomes that which he really is, a true man and friend. It is a pretty story, and one that tends to do that, which all clean, modern dramas are intended to do—"good"—and a word to the public: during the engagement of Mr. Willard's company, only the very best of plays will be produced, plays that will have the tendency to elevate and leave a lasting impression for the better on the minds of the public, as well as amuse and entertain.

There is not much need to expatiate upon Mr. Willard's talents as they are in a measure well known to the people of Astoria and to make the lasting impression upon an audience as Mr. Willard did in John Storm in "The Christian." two seasons ago, predicts a warm welcome for him during this coming engagement. Nature has been indeed kind to him, bestowing lavishly all the desired requirements of an actor, voice, stage presence, and never-failing intelligence in the interpretation of an character he assumes. 7-9-11.

Cures Old Sores.

Westmoreland, Kans., May 5, 1902: Ballard, Snow Liniment Co., your Snow Liniment cured an old sore on the side of my chin that was supposed to be a cancer. The sore was stubborn and would not yield to treatment, until I tried Snow Liniment, which did the work in short order. My sister, Mrs. Sophia J. Carson, Allensville, Mifflin Co., Pa., has a sore and mistrusts that it is a cancer. Please send her a 50c bottle. Sold by Hart's drug store.

Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is original laxative cough syrup and combines the qualities necessary to relieve the cough and purge the system of cold. Contains no opiates. Sold by C. Rogers, J.

ASTORIA PREACHER FAMOUS.

Rev. C. H. Webb of Astoria, N. Y., Gives Roosevelt a Little Religious Advice.

OYSTER BAY, July 8.—The president accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and children, inaugurated their usual summer custom of attending services at Christ Church today. The sermon was by Rev. C. H. Webb, of Astoria, N. Y., who is in camp near Oyster Bay with nearly 50 boys of his parish. The boys accompanied Webb to the church and lined up along the driveway entrance and when the president arrived, respectfully saluted, and received the president's smiling greeting.

ASTORIA TRAIN DELAYED.

Freight Wrecked in Portland Yards Blocks Traffic For Number of Hours.

PORTLAND, July 9 (Special).—All trains on the Northern Pacific track and the Astoria & Columbia river passenger train, were badly delayed here last night when through freight No. 53 on the N. P. left the rails at the east end of the union yards, wrecked three freight cars, and tore up about 100 yards of track. Work of clearing was immediately commenced and the trains began to leave out at 1 o'clock this morning.

WILSON IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Secretary Wilson, accompanied by a corps of assistants, arrived today to confer relative to the changes made necessary by the new meat inspection law.
